And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

Drownings have soared upward at an unprecedented rate not only in this area but also all over the state during the past three weeks with 38 deaths recorded from that cause in Texas during the period, according to Robert G. Mauermann, Deputy Director Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Unofficial records kept by the Department show 63 drowning deaths occurred during the past six weeks while 59 persons drowned previously in 1967.

The total now stands at 132 drownings so far in 1967. The total for all of 1966, as registered by the Department was 236.

With these figures not including the long Fourth of July weekend and another long holiday weekend, plus about 10 weeks of prime outdoor recreation time left, the total drownings could reach the 300 mark for the year, Department sources say.

The Department cites carelessness and exceeding one's limitations in swimming as being the greatest causes of drownings. As an example, a small fishing boat with four persons aboard swamped due to heavy waves and wind. Three held on until rescuers arrived and one drowned. None were life preservers.

Another man was sleeping on the deck of a large boat. He rolled over, accidentally fell into the water and never surfaced.

Two fishermen, seining on the Texas coast, were caught by undertow. One's body was recovered the following day, the other's five days later. Neither wore life saving devices.

Another — two fishermen rented a boat in a large Texas lake. The motor conked out midway across the lake. One jumped overboard to check the prop and meanwhile choppy water and wind moved the boat. The swimmer couldn't make it back to the boat even though his companion threw a life preserver.

Young children on family outings make up a high percentage of the drowning death list. In most cases, a youngster ventures too far from shallow water, steps into a deep hole or off an underwater ledge and drowns.

Mauermann classed drowning deaths "a useless waste of human life and resources compounded by the fact that most could have been prevented with a small amount of precaution."

He also urged all persons who plan to use our waters for outdoor recreation and pleasure to be extremely cautious, abide by the rules of water safety and take no unnecessary chances.

In Congressman Omar Burleson's weekly newsletter this week he asks the question — "How can governmental expenditures be substantially reduced?"

He then goes on to point out that this is not as simple a question to answer as one might think.

One of the problems is that there are 14 Departmental Appropriations, not including what is called supplemental. Each of these appropriations is handled by a Subcommittee which sits for months going over each item with a fine-tooth comb. When it finally reaches the point of debate in the House, each becomes the most important appropriation, and the 13 others are not seen at the time. The over-all picture can not be seen until all appropriations have been concluded. This is usually near the end of a Session of Congress.

And with each department feeling that it is doing the most important part of the Government's entire operation it is hard to find places to cut. When you add to this all of the people that are backing the programs because of special interests and the like you compound the problem. Public works are important to every Congressional District in the United States and Defense and military construction is a must.

This way of thinking extends to the individual members of Congress in the various programs which directly affect their constituency and their area of the Country.

As Burleson points out, each has its ardent supporters but there has to be some limits somewhere.

Fairview Church Marker Dedication Held Sunday

The dedication service at the former site of the Fairview Baptist Church was well attended as former members gathered to dedicate the permanent marker which has been placed there.

Johnnie Agnew in the opening remarks discussed how the marker was obtained. He said that gifts just "came in" and with the funds the committee was able to get a good price on a huge gray granite stone and the inscription at no extra charge. The stone was placed on a concrete foundation and protected with a chain fence on posts of pipe.

Crushed rock was placed in the area which was marked with a wire cable fence on pipe.

Agnew introduced J. C. Turner, chairman of the Board of Deacons of First Baptist Church. He received the easement on the property where the marker stands that was given by Ramsey Cox.

He noted that the church would live forever as there will be people whose lives will continue to be influenced indirectly by the existence of the Fairview Church.

Rev. Doyle Combs, former pastor, and now pastor of Andrews, gave the message of dedication. He mentioned that there comes a time when everything must change.

Rev. Combs compared the congregation of the Fairview Church through the years with the children of Israel, using verses from the book of Joshua as scriptural reference.

He noted the twelve stones that the priests took from the Jordan River when they had stood as the children of Israel passed. He then named 12 "stones" which gave a firm foundation to and depicted the continuing life of the Fairview Church. These were stones of: faith in the future; faith in the present; a strong doctrine; instruction;

DOING A ... MAN SIZED JOB

Heat ... sweat ... fatigue ... blisters ... aches ... Dad says its all a part of "carrying my share of the load." He also says that, "it's important that I help make provisions for the present and near future." But he says "that it is even more important because I am preparing for the days ahead when I am a full grown man." Sometimes I think that my Dad has the wisdom of Solomon, that's this king that I learned about at church ... and that's another thing that Dad says is important ... "that I go to church regularly, so that I can learn about God, and prepare my spiritual life for the future, too." You know ... Dad must think it's important ... He goes to church, too.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Celebrate your freedom from high prices!

Shurfine

'INDEPENDENTS'

ADVERTISED IN Reader's Digest

Who is the INDEPENDENT?

How he can save you money at the supermarket!

By H. W. GARDNER
General Manager, Shurfine-Central Corporation, Northlake, Illinois

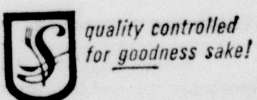

There is probably no word that has been bandied about more before the American consumer these last two decades than the word, "independent!" It has been used, mis-used, over-worked and over-inflated into our shopping vocabulary until it has lost its meaning—if, indeed, it had one in the beginning.

Its most often intended inference seemed to be that here was some poor little All-American guy beset by bigness on all sides and unable to survive without our sympathetic patronage. No wonder most of us associate the word "independent" with the size of the store.

Funny thing is that in most communities the largest supermarkets are very often the "independents"—supermarkets owned by individuals, families or partnerships operating one or more stores in a relatively small geographic area. These supermarkets are truly "independent" of the dictates of faraway management and rigid operational policy. Their "independence" makes their own decisions as to what they will allow, then to offer more of the brands, services and products that you in your community prefer. Their "independence" in their decisions as to who will supply them, has allowed the ownership of their own warehouses, procurement and distribution facilities... producing the lowest cost of food possible at the supermarket.

No it is with the 3000 supermarket owners who comprise Shurfine-Central Corporation. Their stores are diverse in name, size and appearance, but they have three common denominators; they are "independents" in the best sense of the word for you, they have Shurfine brand on their shelves, and June 29 to July 4th, they will be celebrating your "freedom from high prices" with their own Shurfine "Independents Days Sale!" Don't miss it!

AT MARKER DEDICATION — Johnnie Agnew, Rev. Doyle Combs, and Roy Watts led the dedication service Sunday at the marker recently placed on the former site of Fairview Baptist Church. Agnew helped on a committee to accept funds and secure the marker. Rev. Combs, a former pastor, gave the message and Watts gave the closing prayer. A good crowd gathered for the service.

example; cooperation; mission; patience; loyalty; love; hope; and wisdom.

Roy Watts gave the prayer of dedication.

Engraved into the marker is a picture of the church and the following inscription: This marker is dedicated to the memory of

Fairview Baptist Church

Organized in 1888, two miles northeast of this site under a mesquite tree with fourteen charter members. The church moved to this site in 1909 and continued full time until January, 1967, when most of its members moved away. Its members can be found throughout the nation, some as preachers, teachers, and workers. The building was given to First Baptist Church of Hamlin, Texas, to be used as a Latin American Mission. This marker given by members and friends.

Others serving with Agnew on the committee to secure the marker were: Olin Amereson, Bert Fomby and H. L. Ford.

Group Prepares Sunshine Basket For Local Youth

A sunshine Basket is being prepared for Dwayne Weaver, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Weaver, to be taken to him at Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene.
